

GAVE NO HEED TO THE WARNINGS

BANKER WALSH WAS ADMONISHED BY BANK EXAMINER.

LOANS OF LARGE AMOUNTS

Were Made by the Bank to Walsh on Bonds, the Face Value of Which Was Much Less than Sums Borrowed.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—C. H. Bosworth, a national bank examiner, who, prior to assuming that office was president of the Illinois Southern and of the Wisconsin & Michigan railroad companies, Walsh enterprises, took the stand Friday in the trial of John R. Walsh, charged with misusing funds of the Chicago national bank, and described conditions which he said he found to exist in the Chicago national bank when he examined its affairs in November, 1934, in June, 1935, and in December, 1935. He asserted that Walsh had been repeatedly warned by him and by the comptroller of the currency to unload the over-supply of securities carried by the bank, but the warnings went unheeded while conditions became steadily worse.

When the first examination was made, Bosworth testified, there was due depositors a total of $17,688,866, of which $3,686,068 was deposits of other banks. Among the collateral held at that time by the bank were $250,000 in bonds of the Wisconsin & Michigan railroad to secure a loan of $640,000; $225,000 of the Illinois Southern bonds to secure a loan of $1,504,000; and $462,000 in bonds of the Southern Indiana railroad for a loan of $428,900.

There were, he said, also 11 memorandum notes of $87,000 each, each with $100,000 of bonds of the Southern Indiana as security. In addition there was an unsecured loan of $100,000. The books at that time showed a direct loan to the Chicago Chronicle of $100,000 and two notes for $100,000 each, signed by John Bradshaw and H. W. Seymour, discounted by the Chicago Chronicle.

Bosworth testified that the second examination showed the bank's affairs substantially the same as on the first occasion, although in the meantime he had called the attention of the comptroller of the currency to the conditions. After the second examination, Bosworth testified, he told Walsh that unless he disposed of some of the securities and remedied the condition of the bank the comptroller would take measures to correct affairs. Walsh apologized and assured him that something would be done at once.

The final examination before the closing of the bank was begun on December 9, 1935. At that time he found conditions even worse.

"Already $24,000 has been spent for experts. It is an outrage, but it can't be helped," added the comptroller. "The experts were paid at the rate of $100 a day, approximately $15 an hour in some cases." It was stated that the cost of the Thaw trial so far had been upwards of $100,000.

New York, Dec. 14.—In a report to the appellate division of the supreme court, ex-justice Martin L. Stover as referee recommends that the charges against Justice Joseph M. Duell be quashed. Collier preferred the charges, contending that Duell was unfit for his place on the bench of the court, and that he had been guilty of a series of special sessions. Justice Duell figured prominently in the trial of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, on charges of libel brought by Col. Mann, editor of Town Topics. WILL NOT YIELD TO PRESSURE

FUNSTON WILL KEEP SOLDIERS IN GOLDFIELD.

MUST RENOUNCE THE UNION

Mine Owners Decide to Continue Cart System and Require Employees to Abandon Western Federation of Miners.

Goldfield, Nov. 14.—After having met and conferred with many citizens of Goldfield on Friday, Gen. Funston last night told the Associated Press that he had found conditions worse than he had anticipated.

"The possibility of further trouble growing out of the difficulties between the miners and mine owners," he said, "are greater than my information led me to believe. I have just telegraphed a second report to Washington based on information I gathered to-day. I do not believe that the strike will declare martial law at once, for no serious disturbance has occurred. I shall not advise such action until it is also likely necessary. As to the patrolling of the mines and the streets of the city with the regulars, that is a procedure that may become necessary at any time."

The statement of Gen. Funston set off effectively the question of the withdrawal of the troops from Goldfield. Neither Gen. Funston nor Gov. Sparks will yield to the pressure that has been brought to induce them to favor the withdrawal of troops before the arrival of the labor commission from Washington.

A delegation from the women's club of Goldfield will call on Gen. Funston to-day and lay before him their side of the question, which will be that previously to the coming of the troops, they had lived in constant terror, believing that their homes might be destroyed and their lives endangered by deeds of violence. They will ask that the troops be kept here until all danger of trouble is past.

There is a rumor that a committee of citizens has been formed, ostensibly to act as a volunteer police and fire department in the residence quarter, but which will be more in the nature of a vigilance committee.

Gen. Funston said that the troops would endeavor to protect the federal men if any attempt was made to deport them, just as they would protect men who might be set upon by strikers.

After an all-day session the Mine Owners' association decided to continue the cart system in operation and to require all the strikers to sign the agreement renouncing all allegiance to the Western Federation of Miners.

The school board has experienced a great deal of confusion in securing a teacher to assume charge of the science department. Mr. Neptune, of Gallon, was employed, but when notified of his election, he suddenly changed his mind and decided to remain with the Gallon schools.

Superintendent H. L. Frank mailed a communication to Mr. Hayes today, notifying him of his election and the board expects him to be on duty immediately after the holidays.

Mr. Hayes is an experienced teacher and will come here highly recommended. He is a graduate of an eastern college and very broadly educated. He is about 25 years of age and unmarried. He will assume full charge of the laboratories and scientific department of the high school.

QUARTERLY INSTITUTE

Is Held by the Teachers at the High School.

INTERESTING PROGRAMS

Rendered at the Two Sessions Saturday.

Superintendent of Sandusky Schools Made an Excellent Address in the Afternoon.

The fourth quarterly institute of the Marion County Teachers' Association was conducted in the auditorium of the high school building, Saturday. A large body of teachers from various parts of the city and county were in attendance and the session proved highly interesting and instructive.

A. B. Jones, president of the association, presided and called the morning session to order promptly at 10 o'clock. After a musical selection by the institute, devotional exercises were conducted by Reverend G. M. Rourke, of the First Presbyterian church.

The literary program opened with an interesting paper dealing with general problems of a school teacher's work by Miss Pearl Campbell. An instrumental solo by Miss Marlene Reinicke was a highly appreciated number.

J. D. Harris, principal of the high school at LaRue, was present and read a paper entitled, "Some Problems of Education." He spoke in favor of school centralization and called attention to various principles which the school teacher should support in order to have the standard of their salaries raised.

A vocal solo by Mr. R. E. Mitchell was a very pleasing number. He was accompanied by Miss Rhea Munnell.

Perhaps one of the most cleverly arranged papers on the program was one read by Miss Ella B. Sommer, a grammar grade teacher from Waldo. Her theme was "Life Ideals the Outgrowth of School Ideals." She explained the influence of a teacher in the training of children and said some very pretty things about the principles advocated by the average school teacher of today.

The morning program closed with a song by the assembly.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The program Saturday afternoon was one of extraordinary nature. The principal speaker of the occasion was H. B. Williams, superintendent of the schools in Sandusky city. He spoke for a half hour on the subject, "Literature and the School Readers."

Mr. Williams explained what the teacher should know about literature, emphasizing the exclamation that in this branch they should be exceptionally well posted. He emphasized the importance of the school reader in the teaching of literature and then dwelt upon the problem of teaching reading. He declared that practically all other branches of literature depend upon reading. In closing, the speaker referred to the various steps in teaching reading. He declared that the pupil should be first taught to know, second to feel and third to express.

The ladies' quartet was present at this session and rendered several pleasing selections. The quartet was composed of the Misses Kowale, Mrs. White and Miss Gist.

"What the School Should Do for the Home" was the subject of an address delivered by Superintendent H. L. Frank, of the local schools. The talk was short and to the point, Mr. Frank referring in particular to the necessity of the parent and teacher working in co-operation.

Miss Louise Wottring, of Prospect, rendered a delightful vocal solo and Miss Edith Anderson of the city, gave a clever recitation. D. E. Black, superintendent of the Prospect school gave a short paper in which he outlined some intricate points which tend to unnecessarily worry the teacher. The program closed with a selection by the ladies' quartette.

The attendance at this session was exceedingly large, an unusually large number of rural teachers being in the audience. The teachers were unanimous in their opinion that it was one of the most successful quarterly institutes ever held in the county.

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 14.—Clarence Darrow, who is conducting the defense of George A. Pettibone, had Harry Orchard, the state's chief witness, on the rack for three hours Friday, endeavoring to discredit his testimony. Reading from the testimony of the Haywood trial, Darrow tried to make it appear that the witness had changed his statements, but Orchard forced his questioner to read more of his previous testimony, showing that his statement had been the same at both trials.
